Earnings overview of FY2010/3

---

FUJIFILM Holdings Corporation

April 30, 2010

FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Forward-looking statements such as those relating to earnings forecasts and other projections contained in this material are management's current assumptions and beliefs based on currently available information. Such forward-looking statements are subject to a number of risks, uncertainties and other factors. Accordingly, actual results may differ materially from those projected due to various factors.

While the global economy recovered gradually during the fiscal year ended March 31, 2010, the outlook remains uncertain in view of the slow pace of recovery in demand.

Fujifilm's business environment continued to be harsh in FY2010/3, reflecting a demand drop accompanying the worldwide recession that has stemmed from the impact of the financial crisis since autumn 2008, the appreciation of the yen, and other factors.

To ensure its capabilities for generating a profit and sustaining growth even amid such severe conditions, Fujifilm has been resolutely implementing concentrated structural reforms and thoroughly executing measures to reduce costs and expenses while concurrently rebuilding its growth strategies in priority business fields.

I will now give you an overview explanation of our performance in FY2010/3.

Performance Summary for FY2010/3

FUJIFILM

Performance considerably exceeded current forecast, and operating income before restructuring cost and other charges was up 43.6% from the previous fiscal year.

*Impact of yen appreciation: (90.1)

During the fiscal year ended March 31, 2010, consolidated revenue amounted to ¥2,181.7billion, down 10.4% from the previous fiscal year.

A rapid recovery in demand for FPD materials supported an increase in Fujifilm's sales of those materials, but the impact of the global recession caused drops in demand for such products as graphic arts and optical device products. Those demand drops and the large appreciation of the yen were the principal factors causing a decrease in the Company's revenue.

The amount of ¥90.1 billion out of sales reduction of ¥252.6 billion was negatively affected by yen appreciation.

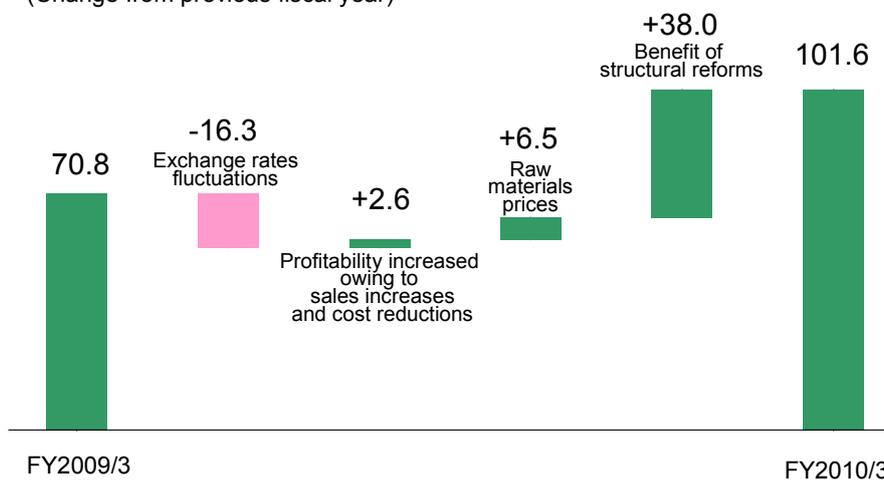

Operating income before restructuring and other charges increased to ¥101.6 billion, up 43.6% from the previous fiscal year and approximately ¥20.0 billion higher than our performance forecast, ¥80.0 billion. This rise reflected the rise in FPD materials revenue, the improved profitability of electronic imaging business, benefit of structural reforms, and our thorough reductions of costs and expenses.

We recorded ¥143.7 billion in restructuring and other charges, and the operating loss after restructuring and other charges amounted to ¥42.1 billion.

■ Analysis of operating income before restructuring and other charges in FY2010/3

(Change from previous fiscal year)

Billions of yen

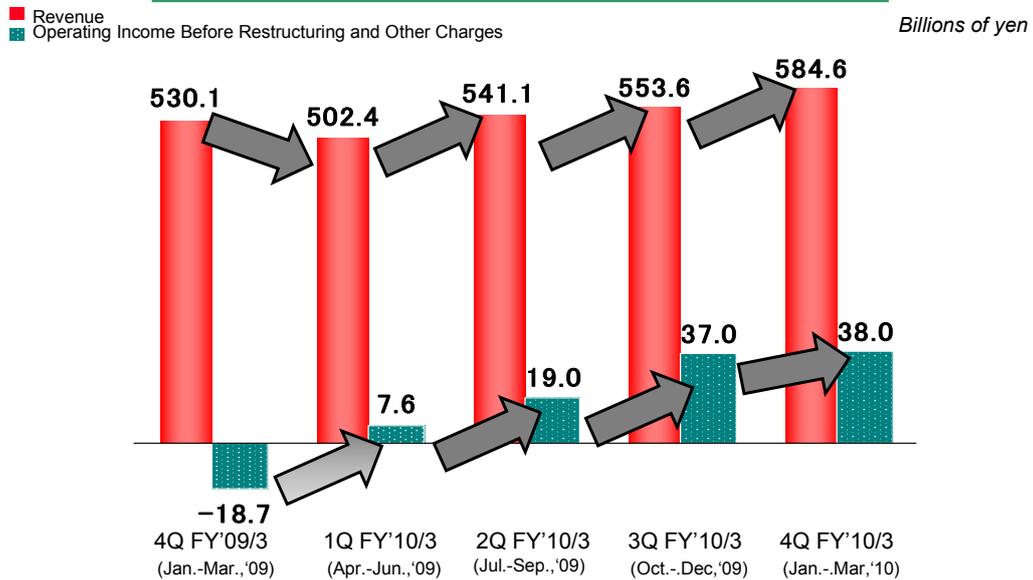

The factors causing changes in operating income before restructuring and the other charges compared with the previous fiscal year are shown in the graph.

Yen appreciation had the effect of reducing operating profit by ¥16.3 billion, but the benefits from higher sales and cost reductions boosted profitability ¥2.6 billion, and raw materials costs were lowered ¥6.5 billion. Also contributing to higher profitability were the benefits from structural reforms ¥38.0 billion, which were greater than planned. As a result, operating profit rose ¥30.8 billion.

Quarterly Performance Summary

FUJIFILM

Smoothly recovered in both revenue and operating income

The graph shows trends in revenue and operating income before restructuring and other charges for each quarter.

Both revenue and operating income recovered smoothly.

R&D expenses, SG&A expenses, Cost of sales FUJIFILM

The amount of reductions in R&D expenses, SG&A expenses, and the cost of sales were larger than that of the decrease in revenue. Realized a large surge in operating income before restructuring and other charges which was up 43.6% from the previous fiscal year.

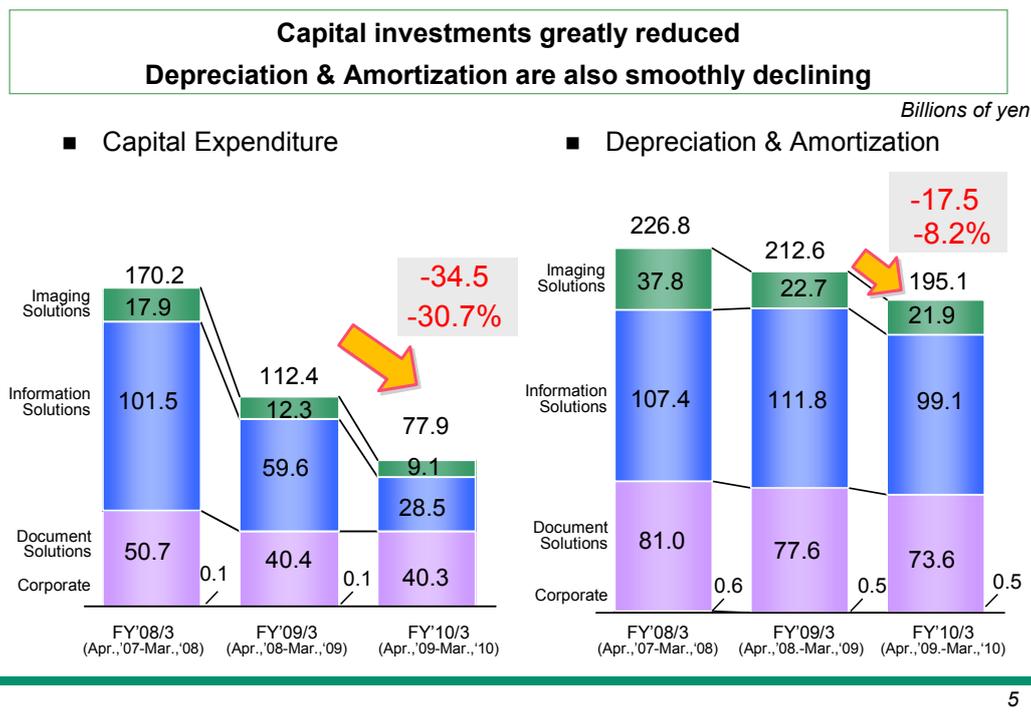

Besides structural reforms, we implemented thorough measures to reduce costs and expenses throughout the entire Group, and large reductions were made to R&D expenses, SG&A expenses, and the cost of sales.

As you can see, the total value of SG&A expenses and R&D expenses was lowered by about ¥100.0 billion. Including the cost of sales, the value of those expenses decreased 12.0%.

As a result, although consolidated revenue declined 10.4% from the previous fiscal year, we generated cost-reduction benefits that were considerably greater than the decline in revenue. So, we were able to realize a large 43.6% increase in our operating income before restructuring and other charges.

Capital Expenditure and Depreciation & Amortization FUJIFILM

Since the previous fiscal year, we thoroughly have reevaluated our capital investments and restricted the implementation of capital investments to those associated with the most crucial projects. Reflecting this, our capital expenditure during the fiscal year amounted to ¥77.9 billion, down significantly 30.7%, from the level in the previous fiscal year.

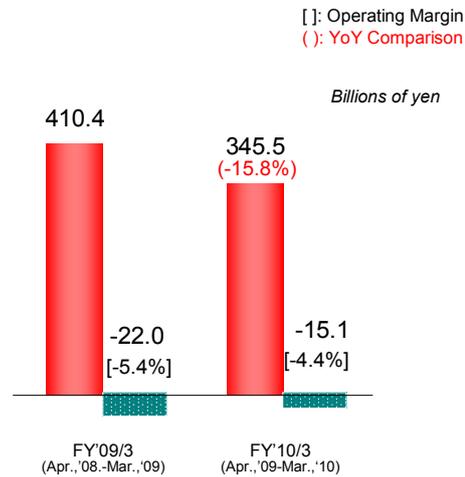

Owing to our previous application of impairment treatment for certain facilities, use of the 250% declining-balance method of depreciation, and other measures to accelerate depreciation and amortization, our depreciation and amortization for the fiscal year totaled ¥195.1 billion, down ¥17.5 billion, from the level in the previous fiscal year.
